A TWO-DAY SHOOT—This group of Melfort (Sask.) district hunters are shown with their bag during last two days of deer hunting season, which closed recently. The hunt was carried out in Area "Five," besides bagging nine deer (eight shown and one eaten), got a black bear, whose courtesy caused him to peep out of his winter den, and thereby fell victim to the straight shooting of Elmer Isberg, a member of the party. The big buck carcass shown fifth from the left weighed 240 pounds dressed, while the bear weighed six hundred pounds and was estimated to have been about eleven years old. In the picture above are left to right: Jim Henry, Gordon Campbell, Rod Burns, Elmer Isberg, Joe Lafave, holding the bear with Elmer Isberg, James Wynn, Roderick Head, Clifford Jung, Alf Nordstrom, Albert W. Johnson.—Photo courtesy of Melfort Journal.

REAL COOL—New Yorker Robert E. Hopp models the gas-treated work suit he designed for cold-weather wear. Hot propane gas, supplied by a 2½-pound metal unit clipped to the belt, is circulated through the suit in rubber tubes. The suit, which weighs 10½ pounds with the heater unit, can keep a man warm for 12 hours in 30-degree-below-zero weather.

BRIDGE COLLAPSE—A section of the 80-year-old Brooklyn Bridge over the Manhattan River near Harrodsburg collapsed under the weight of this light truck recently. The driver suffered a back injury but neither he nor his truck fell into the water. Warning signs posted on the bridge limit loads to six tons and provide for a five-mile-an-hour speed limit and a 200-foot interval between vehicles.

Hastings Cattle Hall, where friends, parents and Forestburg and Canmore businessmen were guests for a sumptuous roast beef banquet, and presentation of awards to club members. President of the 4-B club is Clayton Bruce, seen proudly holding a table lamp and standing in the back row. Entrance rear is Mr. Lawrence, chairman of the evening and one of the three stock directors of the club. Heads club awards, the district Grand Championship and Reserve Grand Championship awards earned at the Canmore Calf club sale this summer were also presented.—Photo courtesy of Canmore Canadian.

G.I. INGENUITY—Proving that even in Korea the American soldier refuses to compromise with comfort, Pfc. George P. Zibell of Albany, N.Y., relaxes in the tent and demonstrates his "kitchenette." Zibell pulled to a stick a sand-filled, gallon-sized jelly can, a candle holder and ash tray molded from a sweet potato can, a tomato can full of water and a pack of cigarettes. Says Zibell, "My apartment is not only a comfortable, attractive place of furniture, but it also includes safety features."

NEW CUNARDEE—Here is an artist's impression of the first of two new 22,000-ton luxury vessels now under construction at Clydebank, Scotland, and designed for the service of The Cunard Steamship Limited between the United Kingdom and Quebec and Montreal. The Cunard Line announced today that for the twelfth time it has been decided to revive the names of two former Cunarders that were famous during the early part of this century, the "Baltic" and the "Verona."

Thirion Convent nuns are nearing the completion of a convent near Turin, Italy. Members of the mendicant order of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, the nuns took leave from the convent for two months prior to beginning work on the convent, which is being built according to plans submitted by a hired architect. Money for the building materials was donated by local parishioners. Upon completion of their task, the nuns will retire to a life of cloistered silence for they belong to one of the most austere and withdrawn of all Catholic orders. Photo at left shows several of the nuns and volunteer workers as they bend to their task. Below, four of the nuns carry a convent bear from the material dump to the convent grounds.

OFF THE TREE—Panchik, a baby chimpanzee, has his dinner right off a banana tree in the jungle gardens of Ponce de Leon Springs, Fla. Holding the chimp is Nancy Gilling of Montgomery, Ala.

GAO RUNS INTO SNAG—Pink Williams of Cledo, Okla., smiles over a stack of requests for the gag post cards he drew up inviting extantimes who voted for President Eisenhower, to attend a picnic "the day after you are freed." Williams said he mailed more than 300,000 of the cards before the Post Office Department, restricts his mailing privileges.

SHOT OF COFFEE PERKS UP CAR IN SUB-ARCTIC

PARTIALS, Alaska.—Mrs. Ethel Grant's car was parked right along in a sub-Arctic car. Trouble in the cooling system. Northern ingenuity came to Mrs.

Grant's rescue. Out came the thermos bottles—the temperature was around zero—and into her radiator went all the coffee which the caravans hadn't already consumed.

A poukash is a large fan used in eastern countries.

HUGE ELK

COLEMAN, Alta.—W. K. Laund, of Calgary, brought a 1,000-lb. elk on a hunting trip in this southwest Alberta district. Brown, husky men, having the heavy trophy a quarter-mile to the nearest road so it could be loaded on Laund's car.

RECORD-BREAKING TOE—Cleveland Browne's Lou "The Cow" Gross holds the shoe that gave both football and fans a big boot. Lou recently shattered all records in kicking his 6½-ft. field goal in four years of National League competition.
